

ABOUT THE EXHIBIT:

Artists talk about the golden hour as a special warm light found just after sunrise and right before sunset when there is a certain magical glow. This liminal time is momentary and captures our attention and imagination.

Writers speak of the golden hour metaphorically as a transition time, time for contemplation and reflection. It can be an ideal moment, a time of special meaning, or enveloping warmth.

In intimate settings and outdoors, this moment causes one to hold one's breath viewing the beauty and reflecting on the serenity and solitude the golden hour brings.
